

NO TRAINS MOVING AT FARGO TODAY.

GREAT NORTHERN STILL TIED UP.

Postal Officials Determined to Get the Mails Through But Can See No Way As Yet—Debs Has Gone to the Scene of the Trouble.

FARGO, N. D., April 18.—No Great Northern trains are moving here today.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Postal officials are determined to move mails on the Great Northern. No plan has been decided on yet.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 18.—Minneapolis employees of the Great Northern Railroad are playing a waiting game. They are organized fully and at a meeting of the American Railway Union voted to strike, if ordered. Quite a number of the American Railway Union men attended the St. Paul meeting. There was a good deal of suppressed excitement, and the men all seemed to feel the matter must come to an issue within a short time. The members of the American Railway Union say that they are confident they can order a strike successfully in Minneapolis at any time they give the word. They claim the younger element among the brotherhood is especially enthusiastic, and that many of the older employees, whose interests are supposed to be with the road, are really in sympathy with this movement. They have had their salaries cut, too, and know how the employees feel. The members of the American Railway Union say that now Vice-President Howard is in St. Paul they, of course, will await his orders before taking any further steps in regard to the outcome. They say if the Great Northern does not settle this week every line west of Chicago will be involved. They claim to have the Northern Pacific thoroughly organized, the Chicago Great Western in a sufficiently good condition for a sympathetic strike, and the Burlington, too, and employees of other lines have offered their aid. It is difficult, of course, to find out how much foundation there is for such sweeping statements. The railroad men are evidently restless and dissatisfied.

The end of the fourth day since the American Railway Union declared the strike finds it extended over all the lines of the company except a short distance from this city, and of the 4,495 miles of the system not to exceed 200 miles are in operation. This has been accomplished thus far without any threatening bloodshed, and the men say there is no danger of any trouble. They are determined, however, and will allow no trains to be made up or to be moved. The last part of the system to be affected by the strike is eastern Minnesota. The men on this branch line are restless and want to strike, but the company officials thought likely they would not run to-day because of trouble along the line, and in that way this branch is affected. There is an unconfirmed report that the company has made overtures to the men looking to a conference for settling the trouble, but the officials deny such a report.

By request of President Hill Chiefs Arthur and Sargent will meet him and Manager Case this morning.

DEBS ON THE WAY TO ST. PAUL.

He Says He Expects No Antagonism From the Other Orders.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 18.—President E. V. Debs of the American Railway Union arrived here yesterday. Urgent business, he said, brought him home, but he left last night for St. Paul, the scene of the Great Northern strike. He said: "From advices received from points on the Great Northern I am hopeful as to the result of the strike. The men are conducting themselves admirably. I anticipate no antagonism from the chiefs of the other orders, although they are credited with saying they never will affiliate with us. Living wages are what the men demand and the present is no time for labor organizations to antagonize each other."

Coal Strike May Be Averted.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 18.—The Hocking Valley coal operators made the first break toward accepting the terms of the men yesterday. At a meeting representing a dozen or more mines the prevailing opinion was that the result of the proposed strike would hinge altogether on the course to be taken by the Pittsburg operators. If they accede to the demands of the miners for 75 cents a ton the Hocking Valley operators cheerfully will agree to pay the 75 cents demanded of them.

Connellsville Strike Seems to Be Over.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 17.—Mobs of strikers last night marched up and down the road between the Wheeler and Morrell works and the houses of those who went to work Monday were besieged. A large body of deputies arrived and will guard the works as long as there is any danger. Despite the disorder the strike is said to be over and next Saturday will see the entire region at work under the Frick scale.

Mr. Lockhart Withdraws.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 18.—G. C. Lockhart, of Bourbon county, has declared that he would not be a candidate for congress against Col. Breckinridge.

REED IS FULLY VINDICATED.

New Quorum-Counting Rule Recognized as the Same as His.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—If there is a quorum on the floor of the house it will be counted. The house of representatives so decided yesterday. The action is not an endorsement of all that Reed represents. There will be no counting of hats and coats to make up a quorum, but if a member is on the floor he will be counted, not in the affirmative or the negative, but simply to make a quorum. Reed has all along contended for that idea. Crisp has opposed it. For over three years the struggle has been going on. It is over now and Reed is triumphant. Three years have demonstrated the impossibility of doing business in the face of a determined minority opposition. The struggle this morning was short, sharp and decisive. There was a half-hour's talk on both sides. The vote on the new rule was then taken and resulted—yeas, 212; nays, 47. Immediately the vote was announced the republican members crowded into Reed's aisle, and as they passed him warmly shook his hand, while Speaker Crisp pounded for order. Just as the last man in the line passed Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, the great filibuster, walked over and congratulated Reed. Thereupon the house set up a yell, even Speaker Crisp's stern countenance relaxed for a momentary smile and the business of the house was resumed.

A regular gorge of committee reports, blocked by the filibustering of last week, were presented under the call of the committees. The house then, on motion of Mr. McCreary, went into committee of the whole to consider the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill. After speeches by Mr. McCreary in support of and Mr. Hitt (rep.) adverse to the bill, the house adjourned.

RETALIATION ON GREAT BRITAIN.

Lodge Offers a Tariff Amendment That May Please Silver Men.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Hoar asked that all petitions protesting against the ratification of the Chinese treaty might be presented in open session instead of in executive session as is customary, and this motion being agreed to Senators Lodge and Gallinger presented several such petitions.

Senator Lodge offered an amendment to the tariff bill for the imposition of retaliatory rates of duty against Great Britain, providing that when not in contravention of existing treaty, any article not admitted free, if it is the manufacture of Great Britain or any of its colonies, shall pay double the duty heretofore imposed, and if admitted free a duty of 35 per cent shall be imposed, except on wool, which shall be admitted under the duties of the act of 1890; and that these retaliatory and discriminating duties shall remain in force until Great Britain consents to take part in an agreement with the United States for the coinage and use of silver, and when such agreement is made the discriminating duties shall cease.

After much discussion as to when debate on the tariff bill should cease, Senator Mitchell of Oregon asked that the resolution to consider the Chinese treaty in open session be laid aside until May 3, when Senator Morgan will return to the senate.

Senator McLaurin of Mississippi then began his maiden speech in the senate, supporting the tariff bill.

Senator Smith of New Jersey followed in an earnest speech, which was devoted entirely to an attack on the income tax, and at the conclusion of Mr. Smith's speech the senate adjourned.

Monetary Conference Talked Of.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Another international monetary conference, this time, perhaps, to be held in the City of Mexico, is among the probabilities. Minister Romero has already suggested the matter to our government and the President is considering it carefully, for undoubtedly the success of the undertaking will depend in large measure upon the support of the United States.

Lopping Off Customs Houses.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—As a measure of economy, it is probable that the present congress will abolish the office of collector of customs at a number of the smaller ports and transfer the business to the larger offices.

Smallpox in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The city health department has acknowledged its inability to handle the smallpox cases in the city with the means at its disposal. The pesthouse is crowded to its fullest capacity. There are ten patients at the county hospital, and new cases are being found each day. So serious is the situation that Alderman Madden, chairman of the city finance committee, conferred with Dr. Reynolds and told him to go ahead with his work of stamping out the disease, and that the money to defray the expenses would be found somehow.

Missouri Factories Resume.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., April 13.—The F. G. Oxley Stave company and Alfrey Aedding company have started their machinery after lying idle for nearly a year. Employment is given to 600 men by the two companies.

Lake Line Managers Confident.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 18.—The lake line managers yesterday took up the difficulty in handling their freight

EARLY CONVENTION FOR REPUBLICANS.

STATE NOMINATIONS TO BE MADE JULY 25.

Important Meeting Held In the Capital City—The Early Date Pleases Generally—Republican Headquarters During the Campaign to Be at the Hotel Pfister, Milwaukee.

MADISON, April 18.—Plenty of candidates and an early convention is the republican situation in Wisconsin. The state central committee has unanimously decided to hold the convention in Milwaukee July 25. This will be a very early convention, the earliest, in fact, of a dozen years or more. It is a month or six weeks earlier than the party has usually held its convention of late years. Back in the fifties when the party was first organized a few conventions were held as early as June. Several members were in favor of holding the convention earlier than July 25, but that date was finally unanimously agreed upon.

Several prominent republicans were interviewed and all seemed thoroughly pleased with the early date of the convention. They said that it had been proved that the best results had been obtained in long campaigns in the past. One said, "We want to get our platform of principles before the people just as soon as possible." Another said, "By getting our ticket in the field and declaring our principles early we are dealing liberally with the democrats. We will give them the advantage of any mistakes we may make."

It is an unwritten law that the party in power shall hold a convention first; but that law has been violated several times in the past and it is safe to predict that the democrats this year will not try to follow the dictates of the unwritten law.

Campaign headquarters will be at the Pfister hotel in Milwaukee.

Organize to Boom Their Party.

MADISON, Wis., April 18.—The republican editors of Wisconsin assembled at the state capitol yesterday and had a love feast. Every congressional district was represented, over sixty editors being present. The object of the meeting was to effect a permanent organization and to arrange for a general plan of work to be followed during the campaign. Officers were elected and the work of arranging a general policy for editorial work was left to the executive committee.

HENRY S. IVES DEAD.

Dramatic Career Closed of the "Napoleon of Finance."

NEW YORK, April 18.—Henry S. Ives, the "young Napoleon of Finance," died at Asheville, N. C., at 7:30 o'clock last night. He went to Asheville about two months ago in the tertiary stage of consumption. He brought his family with him. Mr. Ives was conscious of his approaching death, but received his intimate friends who happened to be in Asheville until a few days ago. He had a bad turn Monday but remained conscious until noon yesterday. The remains will be embalmed and carried by his family to his old home in Ohio. Prominent financiers who visited Mr. Ives during his residence there were impressed with his hope of recovery and entrance into Wal street again. Few who saw him, however, shared in his hopes. Mr. Ives had been confined to his room the last two months. His transactions in railroad shares and mining stocks and the famous trials resulting from them are still fresh in the public memory.

DENVER WAR ENDED.

Gov. Waite's Appointees Take Peaceable Possession of Their Offices.

DENVER, April 18.—The decree of the Supreme court has been carried into effect and Gov. Waite's police and fire board have taken peaceable possession. Hamilton Armstrong is chief of police and William E. Roberts, chief of the fire department. The position of chief of the detective department has not yet been filled. Immediately upon learning the opinion of the Supreme court, Dennis Mullins resigned from the state board of pardons, and Mrs. James B. Belford is the only person being considered for the position.

Surplus of Money in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 18.—There is $15,000,000 lying idle in the San Francisco commercial bank—money for which the banks can find no use. This is said to be the largest surplus known for many years and it is still growing.

BENHAM IS AT LAST BACK FROM BRAZIL.

GALLANT ADMIRAL RETURNS TO AMERICA.

Now That He Is On the Retired List He Will Make His Home in New York—Enthusiastic Welcome At The Docks—Death For De Mello.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Admiral Benham arrived today from Brazilian waters. Years in service have won him retirement at half pay, and he will make his home for a time in New York. He was enthusiastically welcomed when he reached the docks in this city today.

BUENOS AYRES, April 13.—The remains of the Brazilian rebel fleet commanded by Admiral de Mello, which arrived off this port last night, have been turned over to the Brazilian minister by the Argentine government. If Admiral de Mello falls into the hands of President Peixoto there is little doubt that he will be promptly tried by court martial and shot.

The rebel ships are in a dilapidated condition and the rebels on board are suffering from sickness, wounds and lack of proper food supplies. Their temporary wants have been supplied, and the Brazilian minister has received advices from Rio de Janeiro that a general amnesty will be granted to all the insurgents, except the leaders.

GEN. KELLY WAS TRICKED

Train Did Not Take Him and His Army To Chicago.

OMAHA, NEB., April 18.—The train captured by Kelly's army still stands in the Council Bluffs yards. The accidental army of industrialists is still encamped on the old Chautauqua grounds five miles east of Council Bluffs. Instead of finding a train of box cars ready to convey the soldiers on their way east they found that they had been tricked for the sole purpose of getting them to break camp and leave Council Bluffs. The officers of the army are very bitter over the bad faith shown by the officials of Council Bluffs and Pottawattamie county.

Gen. Kelly went to Omaha in the afternoon to procure provisions for his men. A committee from the Knights of Labor went with him and canvassed the business-houses for subscriptions. Gen. Kelly said he proposed to march out from Chautauqua ten miles to a village which he did not name, where he was satisfied his army would receive better treatment than in Council Bluffs. Mayor Bemis of Omaha issued a proclamation to the effect that as he considered the army made up of deserving workmen subscriptions for the purpose of providing supplies would be received at his office. He expressed himself forcibly as to the manner in which the army had been treated by the Iowa state authorities.

The situation has been greatly complicated by the presence of the militia. The sentiment against this constant menace against men who have not committed an unlawful act is rapidly growing, and Gov. Jackson's position is becoming embarrassing. He is utterly at sea. On one side are the railroad companies at whose request the troops were called out. These companies are angry at the governor because he refused to adopt the extreme measures demanded by them. At the same time they absolutely refuse to lift a finger to assist the state authorities. On the other side are the people, who universally sympathize with Kelly and his men and roundly denounce the action of the governor.

In an interview Gov. Jackson denied that the troops were called out on his motion. He said the request came from Sheriff Hazen of Pottawattamie county, who said he would need the militia to maintain order during the stay of the army in his county. Gov. Jackson says he was not requested by the railroad companies to protect their property.

GLIDE DOWN THE STREAM.

Good Roads Soldiers Pull Down the Tent and Tumble Into Boats.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 18.—The army of the commonwealth was astray at daylight yesterday for its barge trip to Williamsport. The men rolled out of bed, swept down their tent and swiftly bundled it, with bedding into the wagons. There was scant time for a perfunctory washing before the line of march was formed, and the army plunged down into the deep canyon through which the pike runs into Cumberland. All the prominent citizens of the town had turned out to bid them good-by. Both Carl Browne and Coxey made short farewell addresses from the canal bank before they started down the stream, thanking the people for the kindness that had been shown the army and promising to march back over better roads than Cumberland had ever seen, all of which was to be the result of the bond issue bills which the commonwealth is going to have passed by congress.

Coxey Will Stay All Summer.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 18.—A special to the Sun from the canal boat near Green Springs contains an interview with Gen. Coxey, outlining his intentions at Washington. Its purport is that the army will not disband, but will permanently encamp at Washington and be maintained there until congress either passes the legislation he desires or adjourns. He is making ample preparations to stay all summer if necessary.

Women Join the Army.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—A new feature has been added to the northwest industrial army by the organization of a woman's auxiliary composed principally of the wives of the members. About forty women attended the first meeting. The announcement was made that both the male and the female contingent will move on to Washington in a few days.

Will Be Well Received in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Last night the leaders of the people's party issued an address to the citizens of Chicago, asking for donations of money and provisions for Kelly's army when it arrives. While enlistment books have not yet been opened, it is said that thirty to fifty men have agreed to join Kelly's forces when they arrive in Chicago.

Detectives Join Coxey.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The police authorities of Washington are making preparations to receive Gen. Coxey and the commonwealth army. Two members of the detective branch of the force were sent to join the army at Cumberland Saturday. Their business will be to make the acquaintance of any criminals who may be enlisted in the ranks and to learn the true inwardness of the movement.

Pilgrims in a Refrigerator Car.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 18.—A detachment of the Kelly industrial army, numbering eighty men, under Capt. Gorman, reached here yesterday en route to Washington. The men were packed into a refrigerator car and were badly cramped for room. They were fed at Red Butte. Two hundred more are en route between Evanston and Cheyenne.

Soliciting Assistance for Frye.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 18.—A number of men are in the city soliciting aid for Frye's division of the commonwealth army. The solicitors claim to be advance guards of the army, which, they say, numbers over 600 persons. Frye is coming east on the national road and will probably reach here Thursday.

Capture a Freight Train.

CARLYLE, Ill., April 18.—Two hundred men, a part of Gen. Frye's army, captured a Baltimore & Ohio southwestern freight train at Odun, seven miles east of here. They were hauled to Flora, forty-eight miles east of there. All efforts to dislodge the men were in vain.

Many Recruits at Spokane.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 18.—The Spokane branch of the Coxey army numbers 250 recruits. Barracks have been made of an old church building. It is said five men will stay in the camp here until the Puget Sound regiments arrive and proceed with them.

CLOSER TRADE RELATIONS.

Conference Between Representatives of Southern and Western States.

WICHITA, Kan., April 18.—Methods by which closer trade relations may be established between the west and south is the main question that has brought to this city a large number of delegates from different states. The growth and development during the last ten years of the south and west has naturally led to an extraordinary increase in the interchange of products, while at the same time old business methods still prevail. New conditions are demanded which will improve the business situation in the two sections, and the character of these conditions is the question that the delegates assembled are called upon to solve.

BULLET IN HIS JAW.

W. H. Bruning Shot in Ex-President Harrison's Office at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 18.—Two men were shot, one seriously, at noon yesterday in the room formerly occupied by Gen. Benjamin Harrison as his private office. It was in the office of Miller, Winter & Elam, one of the best known law firms in Indiana. Attorney William M. Copeland, ex-member of the legislature and a leading practitioner at the Madison (Ind.) bar, entered the office with his counsel, Addison C. Harris. Seeing his brother-in-law, William H. Harding, a New York capitalist, formerly of Madison, Copeland, suddenly opened fire on the latter. Bruning's jaw was shot away with the first bullet and he received the second in the wrist while throwing up his arm. One of the bullets struck Attorney Harris in the arm, breaking the bone below the elbow. Attorney Ferdinand Winters, with others, overpowered Copeland, who fought as one mad to get at his brother-in-law after the latter had fallen. Later, when searched in the jail, an eight-inch dirk knife was found on Copeland. Bruning is at the hospital and will recover unless lock jaw sets in. Mr. Harris, who was one of the counsel of the Coffins, on trial for wrecking the Indianapolis National bank, will be laid up some time with his wounded arm.

The cause assigned for the shooting is a story of family persecution. Mrs. Copeland is prosecuting a contest of her father's will by which she was disinherited and a suit to recover property from her brother, which she claims was decided to him under duress. Attorney Copeland is well known in Indiana and married his wife during the session of the legislature of 1885, of which he was a member.

Carmen Postpone a Strike.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 18.—The report that the employees of the Milwaukee Street Railway company will go on a strike to-day is incorrect. They are under contract to work until May 1 at the old scale. The men submitted a compromise proposition to Manager Wyman yesterday, and he telegraphed it to President Cromwell, who is in Chicago, and to the board of directors in New York. The men will await answers from these sources before taking further action.

Iowa Crop Bulletin.

DES MOINES, April 18.—This week's Iowa crop bulletin says the weather during the larger part of the last week was cool and cloudy, the daily average temperature being below normal and averaging about 30 per cent. The rainfall has been sufficient for present needs and was well distributed. The conditions were favorable for farm work, which is now in all parts of the state well advanced.

Governor Defies a Grand Jury.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 18.—Gov. Brown refused to testify before the grand jury respecting the alleged crookedness among state officials, which one of his organs lately said had come to his knowledge. He told the jury to report him to the judge if it wanted to, and the court will in all likelihood take action against him as a private citizen.

Wilson Thanks the Women.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Judge Jere Wilson, whose eloquent plea for the advancement of women in the closing speech for Madeline Pollard gained for him a fine bouquet of La France roses, from Miss Mary Desha, sister of Col. Breckinridge's late wife; Mrs. Daniel Waugh, Miss Nettie L. White, Miss Louise Lowell and others, has sent a graceful letter of acknowledgment.

Kept His Deadly Word.

GUTHRIE, Ok., April 18.—When John Logan was on trial for robbery he threatened to kill John Allen, a negro, the chief witness against him, should he ever be free again. BERLIN, April 18.—A man who is supposed to have been the person who assaulted and murdered the young sister of mercy at Schweichei, Grunewald, not far from this city, on Saturday last, has been arrested in the village of Schoeneberg, near here, and brought to this city.

AN OPPORTUNITY WORTH NOTING

The C. S. Graves' Land Co. is Now One of the Foremost in The State.

It is wonderful the amount of attention The C. S. Graves Land Company and The Columbia Improvement Association are drawing to the state of Wisconsin. The above companies are separate and distinct, but are working in harmony. Columbia is located in Clark county, and is one of the most thrifty towns in the county. It is seven miles from the county seat of Clark county, a town of 4,000 inhabitants. It is located on the Marshallfield branch of the Omaha railroad and is a regular station having six trains in and out each day the same as the county seat, seven miles away. Columbia is improving very fast. A large hotel and several stores are being built, and people are locating there every day. There is no doubt but it is destined to become one of the best inland towns in that part of the state. Everything possible is being done to push Columbia forward and if one wishes to see a thriving town he should go there. The rates have been reduced from Janesville to $5.55. One thing that is sure to push Columbia forward is the fact that it is surrounded by the best farming and producing land the sun ever shone on. Clark county land is conceded by all to be the best. Since the C. S. Graves Land company began to offer their land in Clark county for sale, which was only January 1 last, over 3,000 acres have been sold and farmers are going there by the score. Almost every day a new party of settlers arrive. Last night C. S. Graves, the president of the company left with a party of twelve who have purchased land and will settle there. The inducements cannot be rejected. When land, the best there is, can be bought for $7.50 per acre people are sure to buy. There is no use going to California or some other western state to get a farm and pay much more for it when a better one can be purchased here for $7.50 per acre on long time. It is not hard to judge what the citizens of Green county think of Clark county land.

The following from the Monroe Sentinel shows their sentiment:

GREEN COUNTY FARMERS SPEAK. THEY VIEWED THE LAND. THEY WERE SATISFIED, AND SAY SO.

COLUMBIA, Wis., April 5, 1894.—The C. S. Graves Land Co., Janesville, Wis. Gentleman:—We have carefully examined a share of the land you are offering for sale in Clark county, and consider it first class soil, and well adapted to farming purposes. At the price asked it is cheap and would advise anyone wanting good farming land cheap, to buy this land.

JNO. A. IVERSON.

PETER FRYSLIK.

PAUL PHILLIPSON.

M. S. IVERSON.

C. A. KELLY.

COLUMBIA, Wis., April 5, 1894.—We have carefully examined some of the land in Clark county for sale by the C. S. Graves Land Co., and have bought us a farm and consider it good farming land. We would advise anyone wanting a farm to buy of this company.

JAMES P. McDONALD,

ANDREW SCHAFER,

FREDERICK MOSHER,

JACOB BARTSOHL,

FRED EGGIMANN,

There is no question that a person making an investment in Clark county land will reap a big reward. No better opportunity was ever offered, and the man who buys now will make the money. It is only a six hours' ride from here, and one might be very agreeably surprised by going there.

DISTEMPER AT EMERALD GROVE

A Few Horses Suffering From This Malady

—Spring Work Progressing.

EMERALD GROVE, April 17.—Fine weather has brought all the farmers to the fields, seeding progressing rapidly. The land works up fine and if this week is a fair one the sowing will be well along. Several farmers off to the south are having horse distemper in their stables. Dwight Gilson of Sioux City is back in the village after an absence of three years. Gillies & Jones have received their spring goods from Chicago and their many patrons are invited to call and inspect their purchases. James Lilburn shot four wild geese at one shot Monday morning. Miss Alma Pond returned to Rockford, Ill., after a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. James Gillies. The storm of sleet last week broke down the telephone line in many places. It was repaired on Thursday. Gillies & Jones sell six good brooms for a dollar. Those who attended the first social last Friday night had a jolly time. The young men all enjoyed giving their purses a rest. Prof. G. W. Ferguson, the "chalk talk" lecturer will give his entertainment at the Emerald Grove Congregational church on Thursday evening, April 19. Subject, "Sense and Nonsense." Admission is twenty-five cents; children under fourteen years ten cents; under ten years no charge. Lecture will commence at 8 o'clock.

It will astonish you how quick Johnson's Magic Oil will kill all pain. Sold at Smith's pharmacy; 25 and 50 cents.

The largest increase in gold production in any state last year was in Colorado, whose increase approximates $2,000,000. The only state in which a decrease is shown is Nevada, a falling off of about $75,000.

A relic from the battlefield of Chickamauga, consisting of a piece of Southern pine, in one side of which is imbedded a bit of shell and in the other two balls, is prized by Isaac B. Patten of Watertown, Mass.

FLIGHT OF RED BUGS FILLED THE AIR.

EARLY RISERS STARTLED BY A STRANGE SIGHT.

There Are Indications That a New Pest For the Farmer Is In The Land May Be an Offshoot of Coxey's Army or the Pollard Breckenridge Case.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning there was a strange flight of bugs that early risers were at a loss to account for. The bugs were of a sort not common here, about three eighths of an inch long and perhaps half as broad, had brilliant reddish brown wing covers, and amber tinted legs; they were very restless in flight, scarcely ever alighting and were all moving in the same westward direction. The insects apparently came from the east and, although there were millions of them, by 9 o'clock they had all vanished and not one could be found.

What they were—whence they came—whether bound, no one knows. It was next to impossible to catch one, and like the Irishman's flea when you put your finger on him he wasn't there. They were evidently bent on business, whatever that business was. Whether this was the advance guard of a new pest for our agricultural friends, it is too early yet to say. It may possibly be nothing more harmful than vermin from Coxey's army, that the unwarranted activity of that army has put to flight; or it may be a materialization of the foulness of the Pollard-Breckenridge case spreading itself over the land.

NEW PATTERNS ARE OFFERED.

The Kilree Basque and the Kirkland Skirt Will Find Favor.

Ladies who profit by The Gazette's pattern offer are getting the best that is offered in spring styles. Among other novelties are the following:

540—Kilree basque. Sizes, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Some of the newest ideas are embodied in this charming design formed by the combination of the "Kilree" basque and the "Kirkland" skirt. The basque has a double circle skirt, and the short cape effect; and the back is without side forms, although the lining is fitted with the usual number of omitted, also the cape, and a simple tailor made basque will be the result. Any of the popular spring novelties may be used for this costume, but wool crepons, homespins, and camels' hair are especially stylish and pretty; tweeds and covert cloth can be used for the plainer model. Our illustration represents brown hopsacking with black velvet revers piped on the edges with gold colored satin; the upper and under revers are lined with gold-and-black changeable silk. The chemise is of white satin overlaid with black lace; or it may be of white cloth braided with silk soutache. This basque can be worn with any style of skirt, but looks exceedingly well with the "Kirkland," which is described below. A special illustration and full directions about the pattern will be found on the envelope in which it is enclosed.

541—Kirkland skirt. Sizes medium and large. A new and stylish design, which shows some variations upon the old lines. It has a very modish flare at the bottom, and fan pleatings about half a yard deep on the sides of the front breadth add to the stylish effect. It is cut with seven gores, and has a bias seam in the middle of the back, where the fullness is held in graceful folds by elastic bands tacked along the inside. The pattern is marked to show exactly where the bands are to be. This skirt is very desirable for any of the popular woolen materials for spring wear, and combines well with any basque or waist.

A special illustration and full directions about patterns will be found on the envelope in which they are enclosed.

ROADS MADE IN A SENSIBLE WAY

D. Merrill Objects to the Systems That are Now In Vogue.

D. Merrill suggests to Rock county farmers a method for working roads to the best possible advantage. He objects to most of the schemes because they require middle men to carry out the system and take it out of the hands of tax payers and may open a new avenue to "boodles." His idea is:

Let the roads be divided into suitable districts.

At the annual town meeting elect three commissioners or central supervisors of roads.

Let the commissioner nominate with the approval of the meeting an overseer for each district.

Commissioners to examine with the overseers all the roads in the town by the 1st day of May and determine how and where the money appropriated shall be expended.

Overseers call out between the 1st day of May and the 1st day of July all tax payers with teams and tools to work and they shall do faithful service.

At least one commissioner with the overseer shall superintend all the work, and for all labor faithfully performed or materials furnished shall credit the tax payer with the amount his due.

The main roads leading to towns or cities shall be kept by a joint tax to be determined by the supervisors of towns and city councils.

Commissioners and overseers be authorized to levy additional tax when deemed necessary, not to exceed one half the tax in said district voted at the annual town meeting.

NO MYSTERY IN THE CASE.

Business Men Have a Peculiar Idea of a Very Simple Matter.

There is nothing mysterious about advertising. You are simply telling people where they can get certain needed things. That's all there is of it. If you can tell them about something they want or ought to want—if you have a good thing to offer advertising will sell it. Most any sort of advertising is useful, but newspaper advertising is not only the best, but costs less than any other kind—service considered. You can get more circulation—talk to more people for less money, in a newspaper, than in any other way. Figure it out and see.

Good Words for Sanspareil.

Rev. W. F. Requa is in receipt of the following letter under date of April 9, '94. Mr. Lanz was a resident of Aurora, Ill., when Mr. Requa was pastor there. His little boy was suffering from what appeared to be pulmonary consumption and had been given up by a council of three of the best local physicians. His life was saved by the use of the wonderful remedy now known as "Sanspareil."

Many people in Janesville are now using it with equally marked results. Money is refunded in every instance where it fails to perform what is claimed for it. Every druggist in this city handles it, and will make good the guaranty.

McALISTER, INDIAN TERRITORY, APRIL 9.—To whom it may concern:—This is to certify that I know Parson W. F. Requa personally and can give willing testimony to the wonderful curative powers of the remedy. My little boy was at the point of death with what was called pulmonary consumption, by three of our best physicians in Aurora. In fact they had given him up to die. After three weeks' treatment with Parson Requa's remedy he was restored to perfect health and is well today.

NEW CANDIDATES HAVE BEEN NOMINATED.

Everybody Who Has Examined the Instrument at S. C. Burnham & Co's Says the Things Said in Its Favor Were Justified—Conditions of the Contest.

Everybody who has seen The Gazette piano is enthusiastic in its praise. It has a pure ringing tone, and its action is very fine. These qualities are what would be expected of a Shaw piano and The Gazette made no mistake in choosing that instrument.

Friends of contestants show a lively interest in the success of their favorites and votes are coming in rapidly. New subscribers should be repaid as fast as secured, but coupons should be tied in bundles of one hundred each and kept until the day the competition closes. THE ROCK OF AGES NEVER GROWS OLD.

THE STORY OF A FAMOUS WORK OF ART.

A Copy of Which Adorns Millions of Homes—How It Came to Be Painted—
—Was First an Album Sketch—
Money for Its Painter.

NO PICTURE OF modern times has taken a stronger hold upon popular favor or fulfilled a higher mission than that whose history is here recorded. It has been reproduced in every form, has made its way into the homes of the inhabitants of all parts of the civilized globe, and has adorned alike the walls of palaces and of hovels. It has nerved the hearts of Christians to heroic resistance, add not less heroic submission; and the departing pilgrim, with last look fastened upon it, has gathered strength and courage for a triumphant passage through the shadowy valley.

The causes which operate to produce popularity are little understood. An author makes a "happy hit" inexplicably to himself. A song catches the public ear, one can not tell how or why, and is sung in every thoroughfare and whistled upon every corner; but the popularity of "The Rock of Ages" is an open secret which "he who runs may read." It is founded upon a deep and universal need in the human heart, a need which has manifested itself in every age of the world since its creation; a need for something stronger and higher than itself to which it may cling amid the storms of life, a need for something staple in a world where all things yield to the inexorable law of change.

The painting is a symbolic representation of the Christian faith. In the midst of an ocean of sin the cross, founded deep upon the eternal Godhead and offering the only safety, erects itself. To it a female figure clings. She is a representative of weakness, of helpless dependence, of affectionate trust. Her garment is wet with the spray of daily temptation and infirmity, but her gaze is upward, from whence streams the light of forgiveness, of love, of hope, of assured divine favor.

In painful contrast to this figure is the masculine hand in the foreground of the picture, the symbol of self dependence, which, reaching out of the waters, endeavors to lay hold of a piece of floating wreck. It eludes the grasp, but even if possessed would offer no support. Thus the things of earth, mere fragments tossed on a sea of change, can never uphold a struggling, sinking soul, which must cling for succor to the "Rock of Ages."

The picture was produced first as a small sketch in the album of a young girl living in Westerly, R. I., by Rev. Johannes A. Oertel. This aroused the attention of all who saw it and induced Mr. Oertel to make a painting of the subject in oil. This second representation, measuring perhaps fourteen inches in height, Mr. Oertel exhibited in the National Academy of Design, in New York, and, realizing its commercial value, Mr. William Shans, a Broadway art dealer, suggested that a still larger painting should be made of the design. His suggestion was acted upon, the artist fashioning a small clay model and suspending a lamp over it, that it might receive the rays of light from above. In this manner a color study (which is now in Mr. Oertel's possession) was made, and from it in turn the finished painting, measuring four feet in height.

Before this picture was exhibited, however, a number of photographs of it were struck off and put upon the market, and one of these falling into the hands of a Mr. James, a picture dealer in Providence, R. I., he made an offer to Mr. Oertel to become the sole publisher of all subsequent copies, which offer was accepted under a written contract.

The painting was placed at the gallery of William Shans, but was only on exhibition a few days when it was bought by a Brooklyn merchant, Augustus Storrs, for the sum of $1,000. The photographs gotten out by Mr. James, measuring ten inches in height, brought (without frames) the quite phenomenal price of $5 apiece, and so great was the demand for them that the operator found himself unable to meet it. Indeed, the run upon these pictures was unprecedented in the history of photography, and complaints were constantly made by the dealers that they were losing sales in consequence of an insufficient supply of copies.

It then occurred to Mr. James that a chromo-lithograph might be gotten out with advantage (the work to be done in Paris), and an application for this purpose was made to the owner for the loan of the original. Mr. Storrs, however, was unwilling that his picture should be carried to such a distance, and Mr. Oertel, who had never parted with the copyright, set about making a new painting. This work was done at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, the home of the celebrated landscape painter, Albert Bierstadt, who, during a temporary absence in England, had given Mr. Oertel the use of his studio. It was completed in three weeks and the painting carried by Mr. James to Paris, where chromos were made. Passing through London on his way home, that gentleman, simply as a venture, called upon the queen's bookseller, Mr. Graves, in Pall Mall, and with difficulty prevailed upon him to invest in three of these chromos at three guineas apiece.

Scarcely had he reached Liverpool, however, the point at which he was to take ship for America, ere a telegram was received from Mr. Graves ordering thirty additional copies, and upon his arrival in New York a second telegram was handed him containing an application for the whole edition. Indeed, unprecedented as was the sale of this remarkable creation in America, it was even greater abroad, an English nobleman hazarding the statement that not a palace or hotel could be found throughout all England which did not contain a copy of it in one or other of its varied forms, and a traveler who had made the tour of the world exclaimed:

"The picture haunts me. It follows me wherever I go. I have seen it in Chile. I have seen it also in the Pyrenees."

A few years after the appearance of the first photograph, Mr. James had realized as his share of the proceeds, $75,000.

In 1869, however, an unauthorized copy of the "Rock of Ages" was gotten out by a New York photographer, and Mr. Oertel's publisher sought redress and protection from the law. The case was carried into the lower and Supreme courts of the state of New York, its prosecution costing Mr. Oertel $2,000, and scarcely had it been decided in his favor ere a Chicago publisher made a similar picture, evading the law by minor alterations, such as the introduction of a ship and the version of the female figure in the original design.

REV. JOHANNES A. OERTEL.

This threw the copyright open, the monopoly was wrested from its rightful owner, and the markets flooded with pictures in all forms and sizes.

Thus, as a financial failure, terminated the brilliant promise of the "Rock of Ages;" but judged by a higher, truer standard of success, who shall estimate its achievements, or sum up its ever-accumulating triumphs?

Tents as Military Ferryboats. Some curious experiments have recently been made with the new tents which the German soldiers carry with them. The end in view is to make the tents, or rather their cloth, serve to construct ferryboats for the soldiers' baggage.

The importance of this military novelty for actual war is too great to be overlooked. Pioneers can not always be at hand to build a bridge in cases where troops are unexpectedly obliged to cross a water course. To swim a stream in full accoutrement is not without danger even for the best swimmer.

In future, however, the soldiers will be relieved from this necessity by the folding tents, which they carry with them. They will collect brushwood and small branches, with which to weave a light framework; the tent cloth will be unfolded, laid over the framework and fastened to it in such a manner that the water can not pass through. The men will then strip and put all their baggage and accoutrements into the sailcloth ferryboats which will effectually preserve them from getting wet.

The soldiers then swim across, pushing the ferryboats before them, so that they will reach the opposite shore with all their belongings dry. These experiments have been made on a large scale by the pioneers during their recently terminated autumn exercises, and have led to very favorable results, both as to the time required and the trouble occasioned by the transformation.

A Standard Bearer.

In the crusade inaugurated nearly half a century ago against the professional ignorance of the old school of medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bites was a standard bearer. Its victories over disease, when the old time specifics proved abject failures, proved that the pseudo-philosophy which sanctioned the administration of violent remedies where the case required none, which laid down as unalterable rules blood letting, violent purgation, the use of emetics and the employment of corrosive and cumulative poisons in simple cases of liver and malarial complaint, was in fact to worst of unphilosophical science, of hygienic and common sense. Bitterness, constipation and chills and fever, as now treated by the Bitters, promptly yield where before they obstinately resisted old fashioned medication. So dyspepsia, rheumatism and kidney complaint—all surely conquerable by this safe and really philosophic remedy.

G.A.R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commissioner of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filing of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retroactive. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible date.

If U. S. soldiers, or their widows, children, or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, they should write to the Press Claims Company at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address:

Press Claims Company,

A YEAR FOR REPUBLICANS.

The political conditions in Wisconsin this year are peculiarly favorable to the republicans. There is practically nothing in the way of their complete and signal success but the possibility of the misuse of the means that fortune has placed in their hands.

The general reaction against the democratic party is as strong here as elsewhere, with the important fact added that the people have special cause of action in that respect on account of their experience of democratic rule in state affairs. It is not too much to say that the Peck administration has turned out to be one of the most pronounced and miserable of contemporary failures. The whole tendency of its operation has been pernicious and discreditable. This will count for a great deal in the pending campaign. The intelligent and patriotic voters of the state are certainly not inclined to repeat or extend an experiment of that sort. They have personally seen the difference between high sounding democratic promises and their fulfillment, and the lesson thus derived is altogether in the direction of persuading them that republican principles and influences are in every sense preferable. Where such a feeling exists and the facts are present to justify it, there should be no difficulty in defeating the democrats by one of the largest majorities in the history of the state.

QUORUMS TO BE COUNTED

The determination of the democrats of the house to have a quorum counted hereafter when present, whether it votes or not, is a signal triumph for Thomas B. Reed.

A great deal of foolish talk has been heard in the past four or five years about the "danger" of investing the presiding officer of the house with the quorum-counting power. The members who sit silent are simply counted as present, and if they, in addition to those who vote, make up the number which constitutes a quorum, the voting members do business. No man is compelled to vote, or, strictly speaking, recorded on either side who fails to vote.

The new departure of the democracy is a triumph for common sense as well as a vindication for Mr. Reed. It destroys the silly notion that a legislator can be present in a physical sense and absent in a parliamentary sense at the same time. It prevents the childish and disgraceful obstruction which has demoralized the democracy and disgusted the country in nearly every recent congress when that party has been at the front. The party which is responsible for legislation is thus given control over it. It is endowed with the power to carry out its purposes, and the people are in this way permitted to form an intelligent judgment regarding its policy.

Republicans in general do not look for nine democratic votes against the Wilson bill or anything like that number, although it must be confessed that since Hill spoke the peril of the measure does seem to be great enough to warrant some uneasiness on the part of its friends.

"Shall tariff reform fail?" appears in the headlines of articles in many democratic papers at the present time, and some of the writers fear that it will have to be answered in the affirmative.

NEW SCHOOL BOARD AT WORK.

Organization Perfected—Vote on the High School Left to a Committee.

As the Gazette indicated, the new board of education met in the city clerk's office last night and organized, by electing T. W. Goldin, president, and John Cunningham, clerk. Commissioner Fred L. Clemons acted as temporary chairman. The organization was accompanied with great unanimity and harmony, there being no opposition. President Goldin announced the following standing committees:

Finance—Mouat, Clemons, Weisend.

Text books—McLean, Cunningham, Anderson.

Building—Cunningham, Mouat, McLean.

Visitation—Weisend, Clemons, Anderson.

Teachers—Anderson, Mouat, Cunningham.

The question as to the vote on the proposition to build a new high school building, was referred to a special committee consisting of President Goldin and Superintendent Mayne with instructions to look up the matter and lay the same before the common council, using their own judgment in so doing.

The matter of procuring a new teacher in the commercial department of the high school vice Stone resigned, was discussed and finally left to the committee on teachers.

A special committee, consisting of Commissioners Mouat, McLean and Anderson was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the graduation exercises in June.

WIERD BROCKENSCENE AT "FONDY."

John Griffiths Plays the Mephistopheles Under Many Disadvantages.

John Griffiths, who plays Faust here next week ran against a snag in Fond du Lac. There are crude theaters, but none more crude than that in "Fondy." The orchestra has no lights and in a dark scene the musicians find it necessary to pray for a deaf and dumb music score that they can read with their fingers. The management of the theatre studiously avoids putting in six orchestra lights on account of the exorbitant cost, which might reach $6. When Faust was given the orchestra came prepared for the dark scene. Each was armed with a candle and a cigar box with a nail driven in the bottom. When the candles are lighted "Mephisto" smiled at the primitive realism and the ideal hell with its glimmering lights. Finally, when in a lighted scene the electric dynamo of the Fond du Lac Power Railway company rested for a while, the orchestra produced its own illumination and never missed a note of the score.

ADAMS FAMILY MUST VACCINATE.

Beloit Faith Healer Gets No Comfort From the State Board.

The case of Adams against the Beloit school board will be heard before Judge Bennett tomorrow. Dr. Solon Marks and Dr. J. T. Reeve of the executive committee of the state board of health were in Beloit yesterday investigating the case brought against the school board for enforcing the order of the state board of health requiring that all school children be vaccinated. They express the conviction that the order of the state board was within the limit of their power and the state board will stand by the city board in carrying the case to final decision. The school board is anxious to contest the case as the city is strongly favorable to vaccination.

He is a native of the Austrian province of Bohemia and is of Jewish extraction. In 1860 he made himself so obnoxious to the government by his radical democratic opinions and speeches that he was exiled. He came to the United States and settled at Racine, Wis., where he became editor of Slavie, the oldest Bohemian newspaper in America. He was appointed consul at Prague in 1885, during the first Cleveland administration.

COURT WAS CAUGHT
WITHOUT A JURY.JUDGE PHELPS UNABLE TO TRY A CASE.

Janesville Aldermen and Supervisors Failed to Report the Names of Citizens Eligible for Jury Duty and the Box Had to be Filled Irregularly.

The municipal court was caught without a jury when the Cheever-Stoney trespass case came up. The point was raised and Judge Phelps recognized the defect. The law requires that the city supervisors and senior aldermen in each ward shall on or before the third Tuesday in April, file in the municipal court a list of names of twenty persons, who are to compose the names from which municipal court juries are drawn for the coming year. This law had not been complied with, some of the aldermen and supervisors failing to hand in the names. Seeing the dilemma in which the court was placed Judge Phelps took advantage of statute provision and informed the parties that he had no time to try the case, and suggested that they go before a justice. The parties went to Justice Pritchard, but when it was hinted that the question of title to real estate would be raised Justice Pritchard decided he had no jurisdiction.

Jury Raked Together.
The question of costs was now involved, and the parties returned to Judge Phelps hoping that he would take up the case and continue it to some future date, but the judge ruled that he had disposed of it and it was dismissed so far as his court was concerned. Aldermen and supervisors were then hunted up and this morning the jury list was completed.

"The law has never been complied with," said Clerk Williams. "Many of the aldermen and supervisors neglect to make the returns until they are called upon to do so, and then it has not been done until the expiration of the time."

The fact that the names have not been reported in accordance with law still remains, and the legality of a jury drawn from the box may yet be questioned.

"This is a question I don't think this court or the newspapers can decide," said Judge Phelps.

A SOLID INSTITUTION.

The Wisconsin Carriage Top Company Making Great Strides.

Among the many solid institutions and factories in Janesville none is more highly spoken of than The Wisconsin Carriage Top Company. It is owned and operated by young, energetic business men, who are in touch with the wants of the people and who know how to manufacture an article that pleases. Having occasion to visit that portion of the city this morning, where their factory is located, we went into their place, where we met F. A. Vandewater, secretary of the institution. After making ourselves known he invited us to follow him and he would show us a first-class carriage factory in full operation. We started in on the basement floor where the blacksmith and woodwork shop is located. Thence we went to the first floor to the office and shipping room, then to the second floor to the trimming room, and on up to the fourth floor to one of the store rooms. On each and every floor every body was busy. They are working full force and cannot keep up with the orders. While sauntering around through the building, accompanied by Mr. Vandewater, we noticed some very handsome buggies being finished, one in particular being "The Wisconsin King" of which they have sold 200 already this spring. It is a beauty, being upholstered with the finest broadcloth, trimmed with silver mountings, finished in the most elaborate style. There is no doubt but this buggy stands preeminent as to work. Another was the Jackson spring buggy, a new pattern they are just now putting on the market. Like the "Wisconsin King," it is finished in the finest of everything, and will prove a wonderful "taker." The last one noticed was elegant. It is the property of Hamilton Richardson, of this city, and is called the "Albamare Stanhope." When it is completed and brought out on the streets the general verdict will be that it is the finest in the city. The Albamarle Stanhope is an entirely new buggy, and cannot be surpassed any place in the United States. The Wisconsin Carriage Top Company's business has grown to such an extent that they were compelled to have more room, and they have leased the large building next door from Oscar D. Rowe and will use it for a storeroom and salesroom. This concern is bound to progress, being manned by three of the most energetic men in the city, and turning out the goods they are sure to bring them good results, and well they deserve it.

CHECK WAS FORGED
BY A DRUNKEN MAN.ONE YEAR IN WAUPUN FOR MILLER.

Was On His Way to Chicago to Look for Work and Beloit Whisky Led Him to Commit a Crime that Lands Him in the Penitentiary.

"Beloit, April 9, 1894.—The Second National Bank pay to John Foley or bearer $20, twenty dollars." LEVI ROSS.

Writing these words and cashing the paper at a Beloit bank was William Miller's first crime. For it he must serve a year in Waupun.

Miller had been out of work for six months and had been living with his father-in-law, Ross being a near neighbor. He started for Chicago to look for work but met friends in Beloit and got drunk. While drunk he uttered the forged check. He appeared in the municipal court this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge, when Judge Phelps gave him one year at Waupun, the lightest penalty that could be imposed. Miller is about thirty-five years old and has a wife but no children. Mrs. Miller was in court when sentence was pronounced, and before her husband left the court room she bade him good bye, not expecting to see him again for a year. Sheriff Bear took the prisoner to Waupun at noon.

Pat Siney, the Beloit man who is charged with stabbing S. E. Brand will come up for trial tomorrow. The officers say that he will also plead guilty.

JAILED AFTER THIRTEEN YEARS

Edwin Bert Put Behind Bars For Stealing Horses in 1881.

After wandering around the country a fugitive, dodging the officers, for thirteen years, Edwin Bert was arrested in Rockford last night, charged with stealing a mare and colt from Canton. Officer Hogan held the warrant for Bert and had been keeping track of him all the time. Hearing that Bert had taken up his residence in Rockford the arrest was easy and Bert, in company with Officer Hogan, arrived at the county jail this morning at 5 o'clock.

The mare and colt stolen belonged to Barn Radin of Clinton, and both were recovered after the theft by Officer Hogan. Bert disposed of the colt in Winthrop county, and the mare was sold in Chicago.

There are a number of other causes for a single tap on the bell and hereafter the single tap will mean nothing.

TOOK ROTTEN EGGS
FOR SNOW BALLS.FUNNY WITNESSES FOUND IN EVANSVILLE.

Saw Something Thrown at Detective Patterson but Didn't Suspect that Eggs Were Being Used—Nobody Able to Identify the Men Who Committed the Assault.

"They looked like snow balls, but when they landed they seemed more like eggs. I guess perhaps they were eggs," remarked one of the witnesses in the famous Evansville case.

All five of the young men charged with throwing eggs were acquitted last evening.

Attorneys T. S. Nolan and William Smith of this city appeared for the defendants, while the prosecution was conducted by Attorney T. C. Richmond and R. M. Richmond. Some of the witnesses testified that while they saw the eggs flying through the air they did not see who threw them, while others testified that they saw the eggs flying, but thought they were snow balls and paid little attention. It was demonstrated by the man who was struck, however, that the snow balls were regular eggs and very old ones at that, but the parties throwing them could not be identified.

J. Warner, H. O. Walton, F. Secville, C. Cleaves and W. Apfel were the defendants. The young man who was plastered with unsavory hen fruit was Edward J. Patterson, a prohibition detective.

THE WATER LILY.

In the slimy bed of sluggish mere
Its root had humble birth,
And the slender stem that upward grew
Was coarse of fiber, dull of hue,
With naught of grace or worth.

The goldfish that floated near
Saw alone the vulgar stem.
The clumsy turtle paddled by,
The water snake with lidless eye—
It was only a weed to them.

The butterfly and the honeybee,
The sun and sky and air,
They marked its heart of virgin gold
In the satin leaves of spotless fold
And its odor rich and rare.

So the fragrant soul in its purity,
To sordid life tied down,
May bloom to heaven and no man know,
Seeing the coarse, vile stem below,
How God hath seen the crown.

—James Jeffrey Roche.

A TRYING POSITION.

Matters had come to a crisis between myself and landlady. My bill was sadly in arrears, and Mrs. Ringwoodie, having passed from frowns to words and from words to importunity, had ended with a peremptory demand for payment.

Not being ready or having the ready to comply with her requirement, I had nothing for it but to vacate my room and surrender my night key, the former being wanted, I was given to understand, for Mr. O'Bosh, an old customer of Mrs. Ringwoodie whom she was under a standing promise to accommodate and whose arrival was hourly expected. Mr. O'Bosh, I may here say, was Mrs. Ringwoodie's Mrs. Harris, a convenient myth, one who never came, but was always coming when a delinquent boarder was to be got rid of.

I had come to the city to be an author, but my efforts with the pen to scrape acquaintance with fame and fortune had not proved over successful.

Down to my last dollar, with no immediate prospect of another, and wearied with a long search for a cheap boarding house whose terms were not "invariably in advance," I sat me down in an out of the way restaurant to face a tough beefsteak and the still tougher question of what was best to be done.

A grave looking gentleman sat opposite, dividing his attention between a bottle of wine and the evening paper.

"What a bungling set these detectives are!" said the gentleman, whose tone left it doubtful whether he spoke to himself or me.

"Why," he continued, answering my look, "here's that bank robbery, nearly a week old, yet with every clew to guide them and the stimulus of a handsome reward besides, those who should have been hot on the scent within an hour still stand gaping, with their fingers in their mouths. Things were managed differently in my day."

"You were a detective once," I ventured to surmise.

He nodded.

"This reward—is it very large?" I asked.

"Five thousand dollars," he answered, "for the recovery of the property and capture of the thief."

"'Twould be a quick way to make money," said I, "if one knew how to go about it."

"Would you like to go halves in making the effort?" he queried, summing me up with a scrutinizing glance.

"I fear I should be of little service," I returned. "I have no experience in such matters and am almost a stranger in the city."

"The very thing to render your aid invaluable. This crime is evidently not the work of a novice, and to your professional thief every detective's face is as familiar as a pal's. The mere sight of one puts the game to flight. Under skillful guidance you could work unsuspected. Now, if you'll put yourself in my hands for 36 hours, I believe we can bag the prize. What say you—is it a bargain?"

It was not exactly the road to fortune I had set out in, but it looked like a shorter cut at starting. At any rate, my circumstances were desperate, and I saw no better chance to mend them.

"I accept your offer," I said.

"Come along, then," said the stranger, rising, and having settled our scores we left the place together.

In the street he took my arm, and after a long walk through unfrequented by-ways my companion called a halt before a somber looking house, into which he admitted us with a latch key. He led the way up stairs to a shabbily furnished apartment, in which a dim light was burning.

We seated ourselves, and my companion was beginning to unfold his plans when a knock was heard at the door.

He held up his finger in token of silence.

The knock was three times repeated in a peculiar manner, when my host got up and cautiously opened the door.

A man stood outside with his hat pulled over his eyes.

"Excuse me a moment," said my companion, stepping out and closing the door.

I heard low and earnest voices in the passage, but only distinguished the words: "Train for Boston at 10. San Francisco train at 11:30."

Soon there was a sound of departing footsteps, and the door of the room opened and the proprietor entered.

"I've no time to explain further now," he said. "Meet me at the depot in time for the 10 o'clock train to Boston."

"But I have no money," I answered.

"I'll see to that," he replied.

There was little time to lose, and I rose to go.

"Would you mind carrying this satchel?" said he. "I have a short stop to make by the way, besides having a valise to look after."

I received from his hand the article in question, which was small and light.

In the waiting room of the depot my attention was drawn to the clicking of a telegraphic instrument.

I had once been an operator and had learned to read messages by the ear. It is said eavesdroppers rarely hear good of themselves, and the present case, though the listening was involuntary, proved no exception.

Judge of my amazement when I heard clicked off, in a language to me as plain as speech, a full description of my person and everything pertaining to me, down to the satchel in my hand, in which latter it was said would be found a portion of the bonds stolen from the bank. I did not stay to hear what followed, which was doubtless an order for my immediate arrest.

The truth at once flashed upon me. I had been made the dupe of the real culprit, who had sought to cover his own retreat by a ruse of which I was to be the victim.

I walked rapidly, avoiding public thoroughfares, and had gone a considerable distance before venturing to stop a policeman and inquire the way to the chief detective's office.

Following the directions, I lost no time in presenting myself to that functionary.

"I think I have discovered the robber of the bank," said I as coolly as I could.

"It'll be money in your pocket and a feather in your cap if you have," said he, eying me curiously. "It's very queer, though," he added, looking from me to a paper before him.

I proceeded to give a minute narrative of what had occurred since my falling in with the pretended ex-detective, expressing the opinion that the latter would be found taking the 11:30 train for San Francisco.

"The telegram for your arrest," said the chief, "was sent by myself on information coming from an unknown source, but which I did not feel at liberty to neglect. Your coming directly here speaks in your favor. But let us see what is in the satchel."

It was speedily opened, and in it was found a package of the missing bonds, a description of which was in the possession of the authorities. In giving them up my late acquaintance had sacrificed but little, as they had been so advertised that there would have been danger in disposing of them, while putting them in my possession was a cunning device to divert suspicion from himself to me.

A carriage was called, and in company with the chief and two subordinates I was taken to the depot, which we reached a few minutes before the departure of the train.

Snuggly ensconced in a sleeping car, a whole section of which he had taken for himself, we discovered the object of our search, in whom the officers recognized an old acquaintance. In his possession was found all the stolen money and securities except those he had placed in my hands.

I was formally detained till next morning when Mrs. Ringwoodie and several of her boarders, the former being kind enough not to mention my little delinquency toward herself, gave so good an account of me and proved so clearly that I was quietly at home on the night of the robbery that I was discharged on the spot.

I got the $5,000, quit courting the muses—who but a Mormon would think of paying attention to nine sisters at once?—married Nancy Walker, gave up poetry for the pork business and have found, if not fame, at least something like a fortune in it.—New York News.

The Evil Eye In Nicaragua.

It is a prevailing belief among the inhabitants of most of the Central American republics, especially the Indians and "Low Spaniards" of Nicaragua, that after a person has been exposed to the sun or is from any cause agitated or fatigued a glance from the eye of such a person will cause sickness or death in the one upon whom it falls. The notion seems to be that the poisonous animal heat escapes through the eyes, and that its effect is especially blighting to young infants and children who may be exposed to its baleful influence. The Spaniards as well as the native Indians of the countries mentioned speak of the "evil eye" as "ojo caliente," or "heated eye," and they hold it in such dread that small children are always sent away and babies covered with a cloth when any one approaches who is known to be extremely tired or overheated. Besides the above, they also believe that intoxicated persons have the power of the "evil eye" abnormally developed. They are taught from childhood that a person possessed with an "evil eye," or "ojo caliente," can "wither with a look or break bones with a wish." Nearly all the children of those countries wear charms made of alligators' teeth and corals as a protection.—St. Louis Republic.

Eight Tons For Three Horses.

The great establishments have set a standard of good and humane treatment by which the London horse has greatly benefited. Better and larger stables, good food and litter and steady work, with regular days of rest, have lengthened the life and improved the physique of the London horse. A good brewer's horse, standing 17.2, was weighed by Mr. Gordon and tipped the beam at just over the ton. The driver weighed 20 stone 12 pounds! The van, fully loaded, 6 tons 15 hundredweight, to which must be added the harness, making a total with the driver of nearly eight tons.

Three horses draw the whole, and it was stated that, on the average, three horses now do the work which four did 20 years ago. The vans have improved, the roads have improved, and the horses have improved, especially the horses.—London Spectator.

A Silent Snub.

The New York Recorder calls a lorgnette "a snub without words" and adds: "It's uncomfortable to have a lorgnette leveled at you. You experience the feeling of every one who is focused in this way. You think that the owner of that instrument of torture wants to make you feel small."

A STIRRING APPEAL.

Girls Urged to Claim Their Right to Individual Development.

Miss Alys W. Pearsall Smith rises to shout the battle cry of freedom. She calls to "every girl who has reached maturity" to strike out for herself, not to be bound to the home by old-fashioned fetters, but to seek her place in the world like a human being. The following appears in the Nineteenth Century:

"Let every girl then claim her right to individual development, not merely for her own welfare and enjoyment or for that of her family, but chiefly that she may become a more perfect instrument to perform her allotted part in the world's work. It must be a matter of principle, not a matter of self-indulgence. She must be able to say not merely, 'I want to do this or that,' but 'I believe I ought to do it.' It is as fatal to a woman to live her life merely for her own enjoyment, as it is for her to sacrifice her own life to other people's enjoyment. She must sacrifice herself, not to people, but for principles. She must ask herself frankly and honestly, 'Have I any worthy purpose in my life? Am I doing the best with such powers as God has given me or am I allowing them to be unused and wasted? Am I growing stronger and better with each year, or am I narrowing and deteriorating? Shall I be able rightly to fulfill my duties to the world in which I live if I allow myself to be frittered away in little nothings, and fail to strengthen and develop all my powers? Is it not my duty, even for the sake of others, to realize my best and highest self, and to make the most of my capacities?'"

"The revolt of the daughter," Miss Smith continues, "is not, if I understand it, a revolt against any merely surface conventionalities, that are, after all, of not much account one way or another, but it is a revolt against a bondage that enslaves her whole life. In the past she has belonged to other people, now she demands to belong to herself. In the past other people have decided her duties for her, now she asks that she may decide them for herself. She asks simply and only for freedom to make out of her own life the highest that can be made, and to develop her own individuality as seems to her the wisest and the best. She claims only the ordinary human rights of a human being, and humbly begs that no one will hinder her."

The Best that Money Can Buy.

Not an Upright Piano in the Market Excels the Shaw— Few Equal It.

Piano Buyers often pin their faith blindly to certain makes of Pianos famed in the Concert Rooms. Experts tell us, however, that the upright pianos sent out by certain firms making a Specialty of Concert Grands, are far inferior to the Shaw. In such establishments the "grand" gets all the care and watchfulness and skill--- the "uprights" are turned out like so many wash tubs.

This isn't true of Shaws.

Nothing but uprights and only one grade of them are made in the big Erie, Pa., factory. The foremen of the three leading departments are three of the best men, one from Steinway's, one from Knabe's and one from Chickering's factory.

They brought together the best points in construction from the three leading factories of the country. So much for workmanship. Now for material. Here are the

THE KENNEDY FARM SUGGESTS HISTORY

WHERE "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" IS SAID TO HAVE STOOD.

The Tragedy of a Kentucky Home—The Originals of Simon Legree and Their Battle to Death—The Haunted Room.

ELIZA.

THE BEGINNING of my newspaper career I spent a portion of a brief vacation in Garrard county, which lies in the heart of Kentucky. So fair and smiling, so pastoral and "far from the madding crowd" is the country about the little city of Lancaster that it is with a shock one learns that the locality is noted for its tragedies, feuds and "affairs of honor" in ante-bellum days. These stories are still the subject of fond reminiscences in the old families; but the chief item of interest that I picked up in a day's delightful lounging about the town was that the "Tom Kennedy farm," made famous as the scene of action of the Kentucky episodes in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was but a few miles from the place.

The old red brick farmhouse once belonged to Gen. Tom Kennedy. Tom Kennedy, or a composite of him and another man with whom he had a bitter feud, was the Simon Legree of Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel. But that is another story; the story I got when I went on a wild goose chase to find the historic cabin.

We turned down a shady lane that led off to the right of the pike. "Do you see that old red brick house down yonder to the right?" asked my driver friend. "Well, that's George Terrell's house, though it is still called the 'Tom Kennedy farm.'" We drove about half a mile down the lane and finally came to a stop at the stile in front of the house. "Hello! there, George!" shouted my friend. In answer two coal-black little darkies peered cautiously around the corner, then instantly disappeared. The two little darkies again appeared, this time accompanied by a sleek, tidy old black mammy.

"Wal, I clar t'r good'nus. Am dat yo' sho' nuff Mis'r—? Does yo' wad' ter see Mars' George, sah?" Being answered in the affirmative she placed her hands on each side of her mouth and emitted a sound something like that of a steam calliope. A shout was heard in the distance, and a responsive echo. Soon a stalwart form entered the back door and coming through the spacious hall to the front door stood hat in hand.

"Come in, gentlemen, come in. Here, Jeff! You, Ike, hold the 'hoss' for the gentlemen. Come right in; dinner will be ready presently." There was a skurrying of darkies, and the entrance was cleared.

"So you have come to look the old place over, have you?" asked Mr. Terrell. "Well, I suppose it's old enough to have a history. They say familiarity breeds contempt. Maybe it does," he went on, as, stepping off the porch, he viewed the rugged, old brick walls. "When my little girl grows older perhaps I will let it down and build a new one in its place." Just then the same old mammy's voice rang through the house calling "ever'body ter dinnah."

After the noonday dinner we sat on the veranda and smoked, my host doing most of the talking. "I don't know what you can find of interest about this old place. I am harvesting just at present, and am somewhat occupied in keeping the 'niggers' busy. You see this is about the only time I can find something for them to do, and I must keep them from starving."

THE HAUNTED GARRET.

"Don't you discharge them when you are through with their services?" I asked.

"I should say not," said he, as he leaned forward and gently stroked the head of a little black imp who had fallen asleep at his feet. "Why, my family have raised these 'niggers.' It would be disgraceful to discharge them. The neighbors would think we were getting mighty hard up, wouldn't they, ma?" turning to his wife. She assented, and I saw that any economic personal views audibly expressed would decrease my popularity. I expressed a wish to see Uncle Tom's cabin.

"All right. I'll give you a fine 3-year-old filly to ride, and if you can find Uncle Tom's cabin I wish you would tell me where it is," answered my host, and I saw a mischievous twinkle in his eye.

"Add the whipping-tree?" I insisted. "Oh, the whipping-tree," said he. "That must be the big tree behind the house—the one with the two iron rings on each side. We use them sometimes to hang oiled harness on, but perhaps that is it."

When I returned in the evening, unsuccessful from my search, Mr. Terrell consoled me with reminiscence of the old farm. In the course of the conversation he remarked:

"Within ten feet of where we are sitting one of the most desperate tragedies in the history of this county was perpetrated. It was the end of a deadly feud that had existed between James Gillespie and General Tom Kennedy, at that time owner of this place. It is said that these two men furnished material for the construction of the atrocious character of Simon Legree in Mrs. Stowe's story. Tom Kennedy was a man of robust stature, quick to quarrel and had the reputation of being a dangerous man. Gillespie was a man of much the same kind. Although Kennedy was a man of his passion was aroused, he experienced bitter remorse after the tempest was over. There might be some truth in saying he was cruel to his slaves when in a bad temper; it was equally true that he was an indulgent master when in good humor."

"In some way the two men got into a quarrel, the details of which are now obscure. The insulting epithet was passed. A feud was declared, and that meant death to one or both of them in those days."

"It was whispered by neighbors that they would meet in town some day and after that there would be a funeral—perhaps two. Although they did not try to avoid each other, circumstances kept them apart, and the town meeting never took place. Gillespie became impatient and determined to have 'satisfaction.' Well, they met right here in front of the threshold; some hot words were exchanged and then, both being armed, they agreed to stand back to back and walk away from each other, counting ten paces aloud."

"One, two, three, four, five!" A pistol-shot broke the stillness. A bullet had pierced a vital spot in Gillespie's body and he sank to the ground, convulsively clutching his cocked weapon. He had been shot through the back by Tom Kennedy."

"No sooner did Kennedy realize what he had done than bitter remorse seized him, and taking his writhing victim in his arms he tried to stop the flow of life blood and kissed his enemy's brow as a mother would caress an injured child. He carried his dying foe up into the garret and there wrung his hands and mingled his repentant sobs with the curses of the man he had murdered."

Here Mr. Terrell paused in his story. The last darky had slunk away from his seat on the lower step. No sound broke the stillness of the twilight save the chirping of crickets and the dismal hooting of an owl.

SLAB OVER KENNEDY'S GRAVE WHICH HAS BEEN REPEATEDLY STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

"Dey does say, Mars George, dat de gar't am haunted," broke in mammy from her seat on the threshold, "an' dat dem dar blood stains what Mars Gillespie shet on do flo up yans gets red ever' twen'-foth day ov June. Don' get no niggers 'roun dis yer place up in dat gar't," said mammy, as she shook one of her ebony progeny and asked him what he "was trimpling so fer."

Soon after breakfast I repaired to the "haunted" garret. It was unoccupied save by some rubbish. The morning sunlight poured in at the attic window and shed its brightest beams upon some dark brown spots upon the floor. I examined them closely. The sunbeams could not, I thought, warm that life fluid back to a semblance of itself when it poured from the body of the dying man any more than it could cause the dead heart to pulsate again.

The next morning I took another look at the blood stains, and to my surprise found they had changed to an unmistakable red. I examined them several times during the day. Each time I looked the red color became more pronounced. On the next and the succeeding day they gradually returned to the original shade of dark brown.

Tom Kennedy lies in the burying-ground just opposite a little wooden country church near the farm. He rests under a peach tree and over his grave is a stone slab. The slab is rent asunder, having been struck by lightning three different times.

Managed It Between Them.

It used to be the custom in England for pheasants to feed from boxes which opened when the bird stood on a rail in front, the box shutting to again as soon as the bird left the rail. By this device the food was protected from all manner of thieves.

It so happened, according to Bishop Stanley of Norwich, that a coot or water-hen had studied the movements of the pheasants, and being anxious to get its meals as easily as they got theirs, it tried the box one day. As it was not heavy enough to raise the lid it kept jumping on the rail to give extra force to its weight; still the result was not satisfactory.

Accordingly it went away, but returned soon with another coot. The weight of the two birds was now sufficient to cause the box to open.

Where to Be Happy Though Married.
Mrs. De Style—There were ninety debutantes in our set last season and only nineteen young men. Isn't it horrid?

Prof. Graybeard—Possibly the other young men have emigrated to Mexico. "Mercy! What can be the attraction down there?"

My son has been afflicted with nasal catarrh since quite young. I was induced to try Ely's Cream Balm, and before he had used one bottle that disagreeable catarrhal smell had left him. He appears as well as anyone. It is the best catarrh remedy in the market.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

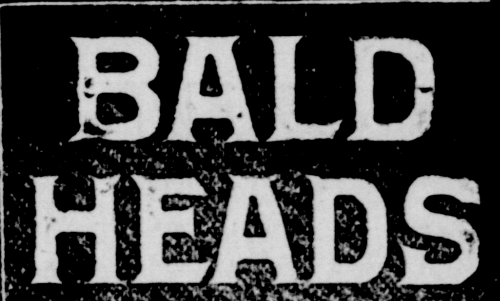

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nerveine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nerveine has brought her."

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. E. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.
